Wendell J. Ashton

Presented by President Jeffrey R. Holland

In Book of Mormon times, the young Nephi told his father that he would go as commanded to do a very difficult task—a task from which his brothers shrank.

“I will go,” Nephi said, “and do the things which the Lord hath commanded, for I know that the Lord giveth no commandments unto the children of men, save he shall prepare a way for them that they may accomplish the thing which he commandeth them.”

Going and doing—two words that catch the spirit of Wendell J. Ashton. And one must use verbs to catch him, for, as a Church leader recently said of him, “Wendell is seventy-two going on twenty-nine.” For such an energetic man the Lord prepared a broad pathway whereon he could share his great capacity for service. In Wendell Ashton’s case “a pillar of the community” becomes not the usual cliché, but rather an apt description of an entire lifetime.

As a young missionary he was the editor of the Millennial Star, the Church’s oldest periodical, in London, England. After a distinguished career in journalism, which included a term as managing editor of the Deseret News, he joined the Gillham Advertising Agency in Salt Lake City. He worked for more than twenty years as a vice-president of that firm, handling both advertising and public relations work for a number of accounts.

In 1972 he was called to organize the Public Communications Department of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He served for five years as the managing director of this department, and under his direction public communications offices were established in New York, London, Toronto, Paris, and Frankfurt.

In 1978 he was asked to assume responsibilities as publisher of the Deseret News and executive vice-president of the Deseret News Publishing Company at a time when challenging issues were confronting that paper.

Characteristically, this man assumed the new challenges with a vigor that has become his trademark. One who knows best his contribution to the Deseret News said, "Whatever Wendell Ashton does, he does well. Furthermore, he is one who willingly shares the credit for what is so often his personal accomplishment. He has enhanced the reputation and brought great improvement to the paper and in doing so has expanded the vision of every staff member there. His capacity to accomplish is equaled in few other men or women I have known."

Characteristically, this man assumed the new challenges with a vigor that has become his trademark.

Brother Ashton's long and distinguished career has also included significant accomplishments and contributions in education and in Church and civic service.

In 1933 he graduated magna cum laude from the University of Utah's School of Business and was that year's Utah Rhodes Scholarship competition finalist.

He has served since 1965 on the National Committee for Support of the Public Schools and since 1969 has been chairman of BYU's National Public Relations Advisory Council. He has been a member of that council's executive committee since 1981.

Since 1967 he has been a member of the advisory board for the University of Utah Department of Journalism and has served since 1972 as a member of BYU's School of Management National Advisory Council.

His Church service has included assignments as bishop, stake president, member of the Adult Correlation Committee, member of the Church Leadership Committee, general secretary of the Deseret Sunday School Union, and Regional Representative. He is currently the chairman of the Executive Committee of the National Advisory Board of the Church's Public Communications Department. Most recently he has been called to serve as a mission president in England beginning this July.

One of Wendell Ashton's greatest gifts is as a writer. Evident in virtually all of his written work is his respect for our unique Latter-day Saint historical and religious heritage. He readily acknowledges the debt we owe to those men and women of courage and faith who came before us to wrest a sanctuary from the desert—a place where we now dwell in comfort and peace.

He is the author of seven books and has contributed articles to all major Church publications. He is well known for the back cover editorials that appeared in the Instructor magazine from 1943 to 1971. He now writes most of the excellent "Viewpoint" articles appearing weekly in the Church News.

As national president of the Sons of Utah Pioneers during 1946 and 1947, he organized and led an expedition simulating the original trek of the first company of Mormon pioneers.

His varied interests have led him to membership on the steering committee for the Governor's Agenda for the Eighties and to the chairmanship of the Board of Directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco.

Perhaps his extensive community service is best epitomized by his legendary efforts on behalf of the Utah Symphony. Even though he has single-handedly raised millions of dollars for the Utah Symphony since becoming president of its board in 1966, he has in that twenty-year period refused to accept complimentary tickets for a single performance and still pays for his own season tickets each year.

Although he has received numerous awards for his lifetime of devotion and service, we are pleased to append one more citation to that litany of praise. In recognition of his generous and continued loyalty to his community, to his Church, and to this institution, Brigham Young University is pleased to award the Presidential Citation to Wendell J. Ashton.

Sarah Bagley Shumway

Presented by President Jeffrey R. Holland

It is often within our homes and among our own family members that the eternally significant—but usually unheralded—dramas of daily living occur.

The people in these plain but important places bring stability to the present and promise to the future. Their lives are filled with struggle and deep feeling as they face circumstances that rarely fit neatly within the formulae of plays, films, or newscasts. But their victories, however slight, strengthen the boundaries through which the history of future generations must pass.

Today Brigham Young University is happy to act as herald for the significant contributions of Sarah Bagley Shumway—contributions she has made to her husband, to her family, to her church, to her community, and, through these, to the world.

She was born on a ranch in Star Valley, Wyoming. Her first glimpses of the larger world came because of her successes in the 4-H program: to Denver for the famous stock show; to Chicago for the 4-H Club Congress; and to Washington, D.C., for the 4-H Club Camp. It awakened in her a love of travel and new experiences that continues to this day.

In 1943 she graduated from the University of Wyoming with a degree in home economics. Her first job was teaching in the small farming community of Lovell, Wyoming. Learning and teaching have continued to occupy her time and capture her interest all these succeeding years.

Sarah married H. Smith Shumway, then her “friend and sweetheart of nine years,” in 1948. The courtship was longer than most because Smith, an infantry officer in World War II, was blinded and severely wounded by a land-mine explosion in the advance on Paris, France. During his long rehabilitation, Sarah learned braille so that she could correspond with him in privacy. She couldn't tolerate the idea of hospital "grey ladies" reading her letters aloud to the man she loved.

Something of the spirit of this young couple comes to us in the simple candor of Smith Shumway's proposal of marriage. Finally home in Wyoming after the war, he told Sarah: "If you will drive the car and sort the socks and read the mail, I will do the rest." She accepted the offer.

They started married life in Baltimore, where Smith had become a rehabilitation counselor to the blind. Sarah encouraged him to go on with his schooling. She recorded his textbooks on tape for him and assisted in tabulating his Ph.D. study—a survey of one thousand blind people throughout the United States. The subject was "How Safe Are the Blind?" This study later was used to obtain better insurance rates for blind persons throughout the nation.

Smith eventually returned to Wyoming as state director of services for the blind. They established their home in Cheyenne.

Eight children were born to this couple, and Brigham Young University is proud to count all eight of them as graduates.

The wonderful way in which they have met their particular challenge is noted in the comment of one child: "When I was about five years of age I remember my father holding my hand and walking me around the neighborhood, and I never realized he was blind because he talked about the birds and other things. I always thought he held my hand because he loved me more than other fathers loved their children."

During the years the children were in high school and college, the family invested in several apartment buildings. Sarah and her children worked hard and learned to do many things well—things like painting, laying tile, laying carpet, spackling, wiring, plumbing, and tarring roofs. Sarah managed the family apartment business to provide employment for her children and necessary funds for a college education for each.

The courage of this woman has been tested time and again. She and her husband have faced the problems of a child with severe deafness and a missionary son developing cancer.

Sarah Bagley Shumway has earned a long list of credits in community service—fund drives for cancer, heart disease, Red Cross, and countless other charities. She has given time, energy, and expertise to 4-H and Home Extension clubs. She has served the PTA in positions from room mother to president. She has written a "Woman's Word" column for the National Blind Veteran magazine and campaigned for a school throat culture program. The Cheyenne Exchange Club has honored her with the Golden Deeds Award for outstanding community service.

Sarah and Smith are also strong supporters of the Cheyenne Symphony Orchestra and the Community Concert Series.

She has a long and distinguished record of service in the organizations of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. She has been a teacher in all of its organizations and for thirty-seven years has served as a visiting teacher. She has been president of her stake Relief Society, Primary, and Young Women. Presently, she serves as Cheyenne Stake specialist on working with the placing of foster children. Recently, she returned to school to learn typing so she could keep records for her husband, who is now an ordained patriarch in their stake.

But the highest priority for this woman has always been developing and maintaining strong family unity, and family excursions have been one tool in this ongoing effort. True to her marriage bargain, she has driven thousands of miles with her husband and her family on business trips and vacations—including one 9,000-mile jaunt up the Alcan Highway to Alaska.

When acclaimed as Wyoming Mother of the Year in 1984, she observed: "Being a mother is a constant, ongoing process of example, influence, and teaching which will continue from generation to generation beyond the time when life is my gift."

Sarah's life has been a gift, not only to herself, but to her family, to her church, to her community, and, ultimately, to us all. In recognition of her achievements as an educator, a homemaker, and an exemplary Christian woman, Brigham Young University is pleased to award Sarah Bagley Shumway the Presidential Citation.

Honorary Doctoral Degree

Boyd K. Packer

DOCTOR OF HUMANITIES

Presented by President Jeffrey R. Holland

A number of years ago I chose several basic objectives in life—things that I wanted to be and do. First, I wanted to be a good father. This was not to be limited by occupational choice or setting. I felt that being a good father would be a permanent anchor for my orientation, and that livelihood, hobbies, even social opportunities had to be weighed against whether or not they related to that ideal. I soon learned that the perfect plan for fatherhood was the gospel. When I want to know how to be a good father, I go to church, consult the scriptures, and listen to the authorities. This has been my storehouse of knowledge. Home is the center of the gospel—and of my life. Of all the places in the world—and I've seen some interesting and enticing ones—I'd rather be home than anywhere else.

That single paragraph from Boyd K. Packer's own lips may come as close as any one statement can in capturing the essence of the man we honor today—home, family, fatherhood, church, acting rather than reacting, examining the deepest meanings of life, obeying authority whether written in the past or spoken in the present, above all searching for the center of things and always finding it by and through and in the gospel of Jesus Christ.

As the tenth child of eleven born to Ira W. and Emma Jensen Packer, the young Boyd Packer came by this devotion to home and family rightfully. He is said to have inherited from his father his ready wit and keen sense of humor and from his mother his deep, abiding spirituality. In any case he attributes to his parents and brothers and sisters virtually all that he believes to have been important in his formative years. He once said of his Brigham City beginnings, "I used to think we were poor—but we weren't; we just didn't have any money. But we were rich in number, and in a father and mother who were interested in and set their whole lives on raising a good family." Later he and his Brigham City bride, Donna Smith Packer, would continue to cultivate in their own family of ten children those traits of unselfishness, responsibility, cooperation, and respect for other people and property that are of necessity taught to children growing up together in a large and active family.

Brother Packer's serious gospel study began, and something of a spiritual bench mark emerged, from his military service as a pilot in the Army Air Corps during World War II. He took with him into the Pacific—first Hawaii, then the Philippines, and finally Japan—his serviceman's copy of the Book of Mormon. It became his constant companion, a source of strength to a young man scarcely twenty years old and far away from the home and family he loved so much. It also became his teaching tool as he moved among members and nonmembers alike, among military personnel as well as newly occupied civilians who were—like himself—anxious and alone in the wake of the world's first truly global war.

—Boyd K. Packer

Whether that teaching experience charted Boyd Packer's course principally or only in part we cannot know, but for the rest of his professional—and indeed his apostolic—life he would be a teacher. One of his closest friends and general authority associates said of him, "Of all the fields in which he excels, it is as a teacher that he is a master among men. I know of no man who is his superior in teaching a gospel concept. He has the capacity to translate an ethereal verbal concept to an understandable activity in everyday life. He understands the principles of teaching and their practical application as the Savior taught." It is not surprising that the first of his three books would be titled Teach Ye Diligently.

Enrollment at Weber College, then bachelor's and master's degrees at Utah State University (where he won honors at graduation and was elected to Phi Kappa Phi), and then a doctorate (one of the first given) in educational administration at Brigham Young University all provided academic discipline and professional training for his career first as a seminary teacher, then as a pioneer in the formation of a seminary program for Indian students, and then as a supervisor of Seminaries and Institutes of Religion for the Church Educational System. In that latter capacity he was invited to sit as a member of President Ernest L. Wilkinson's administrative council for the combined governance of Brigham Young University and the international Church school system.

Of such gifted teachers and administrators we often say he or she simply "has the art of it." With Boyd K. Packer that is more literal than for most others. An instinctive grasp of form and color in the eye of one who is committed to beauty and truth, an unerring talent in the hands of one who once repaired automobiles in his father's garage but who now confers apostolic blessings—these combine with chalk and pen and brush and knife to produce an art of which nature herself might well be envious. For Brother Packer's finest art is of God's handiwork and creation's living wonders. He learned early to love nature and has attempted both to create it and re-create it in the environment of his home and family settings.

"You don't really know Boyd," says a friend, "until you've walked through a forest with him. He loves nature, loves the mountains, animals, and especially the birds. He knows all the birds of this area, including many of the rare and exotic ones. He knows their names and their habits, and he can recognize them even in flight."

On the wall of the home he and his family owned during their years in Utah County, he painted a large mural of every kind of bird that was common to this area. Perhaps even more striking than his pen-and-inks and oils are the exquisitely hand-carved wooden birds—painstakingly crafted, delicately feathered, and beautifully painted, transforming simple pieces of pine, balsa, or fir into dozens of beautiful birds poised for or recently returned from flight. All these works of art—manifest in nearly every room of his home—attest to his aesthetic sensitivity and artistic vision.

Elder Packer's creative contribution has also been clearly apparent in the many important civic and business and educational responsibilities he has assumed and the significant personal and professional honors that have come to him in a rich and rewarding life. But all of those are secondary in his wise and studied view of things. Of primary importance are things herein cited—and one more. Since April 1970, following some thirteen years as an Assistant to the Twelve and a host of priesthood and missionary duties at home and abroad, Elder Boyd K. Packer has served as an Apostle of the Lord Jesus Christ, a prophet, seer, and revelator with a special commission to serve as a witness of the Savior of the world, to teach those redeeming truths among the children of men, and to regulate and set in order the affairs of the Church throughout the earth. He has been faithful to that call.

For the far-reaching impact of his spoken and written word, for his faith in God and service to fellow men, for his lifelong commitment to education, including more than twenty years as a trustee of Brigham Young University and a member of our board's executive committee, BYU is pleased to confer upon Boyd Kenneth Packer the degree of Doctor of Humanities, honoris causa.

Significance of Academic Costume

The significance of academic costume is determined especially by the sleeves and hoods.

DOCTORS wear the round bell sleeve; the gown is faced down the front and barred on the sleeves with black velvet or color indicating the degree; the doctor's hood is large. The doctor may choose to wear the gold tassel on the cap.

MASTERS wear the long, closed sleeve, with a slit near the upper part of the arm; the master's hood is of more moderate size.

BACHELORS wear the long or pointed sleeve. The color of the tassel indicates whether the degree is in the field of arts (white), fine arts (brown), music (pink), or science (golden yellow).

HOODS are lined with the colors of the institutions granting the degree, or with which the wearer is connected, and are trimmed with velvet of the color distinctive of the degree—for example, humanities and social science, white; philosophy, blue; science, golden yellow; music, pink; engineering, orange; education, light blue; business and public management, sapphire blue.

Henry B. Eyring

DOCTOR OF HUMANITIES

*Presented by President Jeffrey R. Holland
Brigham Young University*

“His devotion to the Church, his humility and high standards have impressed all of us. He brings a deep and abiding spirituality, which is accompanied by unusual skills in working with students and colleagues.”

These words of praise and commendation, spoken by former Church Commissioner of Education Neal A. Maxwell at the time Henry Bennion Eyring was named president of Ricks College, suggest something of the strength of the gentle man and friend of education being honored today. Presently First Counselor in the Presiding Bishopric of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Bishop Eyring continues to serve with the impressive personal qualities Elder Maxwell noted in 1971.

As many in the physical science disciplines know, in his name and through his youth Bishop Eyring had to stand in a very tall shadow—that of his father, the world-renowned chemist Henry Eyring (whom this loving son always refers to as “the real Henry Eyring”). But modesty aside, our Henry B. Eyring—“Hal,” as he is known to his many friends—has long since stepped into the sunlight of his own achievement; he now casts a tall and distinct shadow of his own. We add again to that distinction today.

Bishop Eyring’s background reveals a lifetime of devotion to education and to The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, a marvelous alliance of the head and the heart, an integration of the highest gospel principles.

In a recent interview he spoke of guidelines for a successful life—guidelines, learned in his youth, that he esteems and that have helped him achieve as student, scholar, manager, and Church leader. “There are a few key principles, if they were in the hearts of people everywhere in the world, that would make things run well,” he mused. “That’s why Joseph Smith said, ‘I teach them correct principles and they govern themselves.’ That statement is almost the credo of everything I’ve ever done. Dad gave me confidence that you can find most of the important ideas from simple principles. His gospel study was in that way like his scientific study: he had a feeling if you went back to basic principles, you could derive understanding.”

Although Bishop Eyring was born in Princeton, New Jersey, the family moved to Salt Lake City when his father accepted a position on the University of Utah faculty. After graduating from East High School, Hal began his studies at the University of Utah, where, in 1955, he received a bachelor of science degree in physics. He then served two years in the Air Force, stationed at Sandia Base in Albuquerque, New Mexico. During those military years, he labored faithfully as a district missionary in the Western States Mission.

It was while in the Air Force that Hal discovered a talent for handling management responsibilities. So, upon completion of his military obligation, he headed for the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, where he earned the master of business administration degree in 1959 and his doctorate in business administration in 1963.

While at Harvard he met Kathleen Johnson, who had graduated from the University of California at Berkeley and had gone to Harvard for the summer. They were married in the Logan Temple in 1962.

His next move was to become an assistant professor, then an associate professor, at Stanford University's Graduate School of Management from 1962 until 1971.

Inserted during the 1963-64 school year was a term as an Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., Visiting Faculty Fellow at MIT.

Professor Eyring was a popular, even rather dashing, figure at Stanford, but perhaps his greatest contribution there was in helping to shape the lives of hundreds of young people as bishop of Palo Alto's student ward.

—NEAL A. MAXWELL

All of that came to an end when, in 1971, the First Presidency announced the appointment of Dr. Eyring as president of Ricks College. During his tenure at Ricks, he served on the high councils of the Rexburg and Rexburg East Stakes. When tragedy struck that area with the collapse of the massive Teton Dam, President Eyring's skilled leadership came to the fore as he joined in the cleanup of mud, the scrubbing of walls, the organization of hundreds of meals and housing arrangements at the college, and the distribution of supplies and resources.

Following six years as president of Ricks College, he came to Church headquarters where he served for three years as the deputy commissioner of Church Education.

He was appointed to fill the post of LDS Church Commissioner of Education in the fall of 1980.

During his term as commissioner of education, Dr. Eyring has headed one of the world's largest private educational systems, with more than 682,000 students involved in some phase of the system covering sixty-one countries with instruction conducted in seventeen languages. He has been responsible for more than 304,000 high school and college students enrolled in our seminaries and institutes of religion and for the operation of seventy-four elementary and secondary schools with 17,000 students in Latin America, the South Pacific, and Indonesia.

Prior to his call last April to become a member of the Presiding Bishopric of the Church, Bishop Eyring served on the Church's General Sunday School Board. He has been a member of the boards of directors of McCulloch Corporation and the Intermountain Health Care Corporation. He was a founder and director of Systems Industries, Inc., of Sunnyvale, California, from 1968 to 1970 and a director and officer for Finnigan Instrument Corporation during that same period. He is a past chairman of the Utah Foundation for Educational Excellence and currently serves on the advisory board of Bonneville Telecommunications Company.

Throughout the steady and increasing significant professional and Church responsibilities that Dr. Eyring has carried, he has never forgotten what it means to be a good husband and father. His delightful wife, Kathleen, says “His capacity to be both methodical and creative, strong yet submissive, has enriched my life immeasurably. He has taught the gospel in our home with great clarity and conviction, and, to make it all the clearer for us to understand, he has lived it.” Hal and Kathy are the parents of four sons and two daughters, ages twenty-one to one year. Their oldest son, Henry (another tall shadow coming), takes his bachelor's degree in this service today.

When tragedy struck with the collapse of the massive Teton Dam, President Eyring's skilled leadership came to the fore as he joined in the cleanup of mud, the scrubbing of walls, the organization of hundreds of meals and housing arrangements at the college, and the distribution of supplies and resources.

To honor a distinguished scholar, friend, Church servant, and exemplary family man, Brigham Young University is pleased to confer upon Henry Bennion Eyring the degree of Doctor of Humanities, honoris causa.
